The Weekly Bulletin for Sunday 18th February 2018

I read this during the week: "When Christians use their gifts, it doesn't always mean writing poems or music about Jesus, or making a gorgeous meal for the neighbours and slipping in a sermon between the starter and main course. But it does mean using our gifts to point people in the direction of Jesus. That's different - think about it! The combination of you, your words, your manner and your gifts should all make a compelling combination. Recall the gifts the Lord has given you - the remarkable abilities you often use to help others, within the church and beyond. Thank Him for them. Pray that he will empower you to use them ever more generously to express the good news of Jesus".

But what do you do when you are sometimes lost for the right words to say?
